

Classwork:

★ Imagine yourself as a factory worker in Britain (18th century) and narrate your life experience in story/newspaper article/song.

Before all the smoke and factories,
I was in the fields with all the trees.
Growing wheat, in a beat
Freedom is, very neat!

Got all the animals in the world
Cows and sheeps and even birds
Living the, happy life
With my family, full of life

But then the industry upgraded

The air then eroded

Factories started growing

Forcing people to get moving

The enclosure system took action

Cutting our land into a fraction

This land became too small for us

So we moved to the city with all our loss

I was a child when this all happened

We had to find a job to work in

We found a job in a factory

It was the only thing that we could see

Unsanitary facility

Unsafe conditions

This was the only place we could get money

So we didn't bother about the conditions

We have to work, all day, all long

But they don't pay us well because we're young

They expect us to survive, with this much

But this can barely afford my lunch

"You're working slow!", "You need to be faster!"

The schedules are stricter and tighter than ever

They won't even give us a chance

To have a well-earned break and to relax (Rap Ends)

(Rap Ends)

I miss the freedom, back in the day

So sad to see it go away

The world is changing everyday

Nothing I can do about it any way

(Song Ends)

WOW!!!
